

Corporation Fact Sheet

The Company

DIcentral is a provider of a complete Internet-based platform of business-to-business (B2B) data integration services for enterprises and e-marketplaces. DIcentral's suite of Internet-based applications, Total B2B Data Integration, is the most flexible set of B2B integration options available on the market today, enabling businesses and corporations of any size to achieve B2B data integration without the costly investment in localized software and hardware technology, and without the costs of ongoing maintenance and management of B2B relationships. DIcentral Corporation is a privately held, venture-funded company incorporated in May 2000.

The Total B2B Data Integration Solutions

With our revolutionary solutions, our customers can exchange business information seamlessly and efficiently with all of their trading partners, regardless of what types of systems they have. Neither our customers nor their trading partners need to install any software, hardware, or employ additional staff.

DIcentral helps its customers benefit from e-commerce, and as a result, gain significant financial and competitive advantage. Our solutions enable customers with internal enterprise applications, such as XML-enabled procurement solutions or EDI, to be connected seamlessly with their external trading partners regardless of what file formats they require.

Reliable, Secure and Affordable Data Interchange

Our state-of-the-art data center facility provides the performance, security, and scalability for our software. We offer exceptional customer services and real-time transaction monitoring to help ensure delivery of the data. Our revenue model is cost-per-transaction basis, with minimal upfront costs required.
